CONGRESS WANTS THE FACTS. Select Committee of the House to Investigate the Causes and Extent of Labor Troubles in the West and Southwest. Mr. Morrison, of Illinois, from the committee on rules, reported to the House yes-terday a resolution for the appointment of a select committee of seven members to be appointed by the speaker to investigate the appointed by the speaker to investigate the causes and extent of the disturbed conditions now existing in the relations between rallroad corporations engaged in interstate commerce and their employes in the states of Illinois, Missouri, Kansas, Arkansas, and Texas. The committee shall have power to sent for persons and papers, to sit during the sessions of the House, and to visit such places in those states as may be necessary in order to facilitate the investigation. It shall report during the present session, with such recommendations as it may deem proper to make,

Mr. Morrison stated that the bill which had recently passed the House, known as and recently parsed the House, known as the arbitration bill, was inadequate in its provisions. The object of the pending res-olution was to enable Congress to learn the facts of the case, so that it might perfect its olution was to enable Congress to learn the facts of the case, so that it might perfect its legislation.

Mr. Reagan, of Texas, contended that Congress had no more power to regulate questions arising between common carriers and their hired laborers than questions arising between common carriers and their hired laborers than questions arising between common carriers and their butchers or grocers. These were local questions, and the fact that one of the parties might be engaged in interstate commerce did not give Congress jurisdiction over the other. The question was whether a Democratic House of Representatives would deny and repudiate local self-government, or whether it would assume that the states were no longer able to execute their functions.

Mr. Morgan, of Mississippi, thought that it was time the House should dispet the illusion in the miods of laboring men—an illusion that relief laid in the body of this House. Relief could not be found here, or be aided by any legislative enactment. It was the duty of the House to speak at once in order that the workingmen might stop and pause and consider. Mr. Powderly stood at the head of a powerful organization which he endeavored to govern with wisdom. He had been unable to do so, because his aubordinates had refused to acknowledge his authority. The workingmen said they wisbed to arbitrate. What was there to be arbitrated? They said to the railroad company, "we want employment," and the company said, "we don't want your services." The men said, "we will arbitrate," and the railroad company answered, "we will not arbitrate, because we don't want you." This was like any other contract; when the services of the men were declined there was an end of the transaction, and Congress had no power to pass a law which would make a contract for the men.

Mr. Randall, of Pennsylvanie, said that no member was more desirans them.

Mr. Randall, of Pennsylvanis, said that

Mr. Randall, of Pennsylvanis, said that no member was more desirous than he of restricting legislation within constitutional limits, yet, in this case, the government was interested in seeing peace and order prevail instead of discontent.

The resolution had reference to interstate commerce, which was now interrupted. There was no harm in the House possessing itself of full information on the subject.

Mr. Hiscock, of New York, was curious to see how many gentlemen on the other side of the House would invoke the constitution against the right of petition—how many would go on record against the 700,000 men who said they had wrongs to be redressed, and asked for the assistance of Congress.

Mr. Reed, of Maine said that Congress.

redressed, and asked for the assistance of Congress.

Mr. Reed, of Maine, said that Congress, like every other legislative body, sat for the hearing and redress of grievances, and in this case it was bound to give the investigation asked for, to learn what the facts were, and then to act upon them, if it turned out that the facts were such as could be acted upon. He protested against the everlasting putting up of the constitution against every proposition which was presented in the House. The effect of this would be to make a mockery of the constitution and to give point to the jest that the constitution in the mind of a strict constructionist was in favor of every bill he wanted and against every bill he opposed.

Mr. Warner, of Ohlo, emphasised the gravity of the occasion, maintained that no power other than Congress was adequate with the subject, and contended that the proposed investigation came within the provisions of the constitution.

Mr. Curtin, of Pennsylvania, said that the purpose of the resolution was to investigate the causes of the unrest of the people. If staff.

Mr. Curtin, of Pennsylvania, said that the purpose of the resolution was to investigate the causes of the unrest of the people. If corporations had violated the rights of the humblest man in the country, he had the right to redress, and had a right to a hearing before this august assembly. If the man was wronged, let Congress understand it, and lay the iron hand of the government on those who had wronged him. If there was not power in the constitution to redress those wrongs, it was a broken staff.

Mr. Springer, of Illinois, regretted that the gentleman from Texas (Mr. Reagan) should have placed his opposition to the resolution on constitutional grounds. That gentleman should have been the last man gentleman should have been the lass man to oppose a proposition which had in view the securing of valuable information touch-ing interstate commerce. The time of the House should not be frittered away in discussing constitutional points every time the rights of the workingmen were in-volved.

The resolution was adopted without Don't Give Up the Ship.

Many persons who have lost their health and sunk into a depressed state of mind from their insbility to find anything which will help them, give up their courage, and losing heart, lose their hold on life. The fact is, that this depression of vitality is a nervous weakness. Strengthen the nervos and the entire system will come into tone. Because other remedies fall is no reason why we should give up the ship, Many who have tried other remedies in vain have been restored to life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness by the use of Dr. Henley's Celery, Beet, and fron, the best nervine, the best tonic, and the greatest of all druggists.

Chesapeake Bay Entrance-An important bill passed by the House is that providing for the establishment of a lightthat providing for the establishment of a lightship and fog signal at the entrance of Cheese peake bay, for which purpose 500,000 is appropriated. The quantity of commerce passing between Capes Henry and Charles is immonse, being all the shipping that is making for Ballimers, Richmond, Norfolk, the new harr or of Newport News, Potomae river ports, Washington, and all the tributaries to Cheaspeake bay, as well as that which seeks Hampton Roads as a harbor of refuge. Now that Newport News has become the terminus of a great railroad system, and that new and important railroad connections have been made at Norfolk and vicinity, this commerce is much greater than ever before, and the most approved and best methods of security should be given it.

EXECUTIVE INFORMATION.

The court of claims yesterday gave judgment for $3,107 in favor of John A. Walsh for balance due on contract for carrying United States mails, and for $255 in favor of E. A. Blount for balance due on contract for similar services. Chief Postoffice inspector West has informa-tion that Heary Tittman and Daniel Jackson were arrested in Daylou, Ohio, last night, charged with robbing the Attica (Ohio) post-office about a week ago. These men are said to be professional cracksmen of wide notoristy, and the authorities claim to have absolute proof of their guilt.

BUILDINGS IN VIRGINIA.

More Than $300,000 Therefor to He Appropriated by Congress. Three bills are pending before the Senate proposing an aggregate appropriation of $315,000 to be expended in Virginia as follows: $550,000 for erection of a building follows: $550,000 for erection of a building at Norfolk for the accommodation of the United States courts and postoffice; $50,000 for enlarging and improving the public building at Petersburg, where the accommodations for the business of the postoffice are poor and generally inadequate, the same building being used as a custom house and by internal revenue offices; $15,000 to provide a suitable building at Fortress Monroe for the accommodation of the postoffice, in spector of customs, and other government offices. In support of the recommendations for these appropriations the Senate committee on public buildings and grounds states some very interesting facts and reasons. Relative to the proposed building at Norfolk, the committee says:

Including environs, the presant population is 57,000. In a commercial point of view Norfolk, Brambleton, Atlantic City, and Berkley are practically one city.

Norfolk, the second city of the state, is situated on the Elisabeth river, twenty miles from the sea, and has the finest harbor on the Atlantic const.

It reads third among the cotton ports of the the sea, and has the finest harbor on the Atlinitic cesset.

It ranks third among the cotton ports of the Union and is in the front rank of cotton markets. Reccipts for the year 1881-'85 were 565,485 bales; shipments for the same year,
1884-'86 were 295,817 bales, valued at $14,279,815.
To this may be added 298,401 tons of coal to coastwise and foreign ports.

Norfolk is practically the terminus of five great lines of railway. The Norfolk and Westterm, which traverses the entire state from east to west, by its connections opening the way to the more southern states, the Seaboard and Rosnoke, the Norfolk Southern, Chesapeake and Onlo, and the New York, Phitadelphia and Norfolk.

Two canals, the Albemarie and the Dismal wamp, also contribute to the carrying trade and commerce of the city.

From its port regularly arrive and depart seventy-one steamships and steamboats, representing sixteen steam-lines, besides which, more than 1,000 sea-coning sait vessels, not including bay and river craft, cyster and truck boats.

cloding bay and river craft, oyster and truck beats.

Here also are several powerful cotton compresses, affording great facilities for lading the staple, and giving employment to hundreds of operatives.

Its manufacturing business is extensive, and it is the seat of cotton, flour, lumber, and fertilizer mills, foundries, car and ico-mosive works.

At Norfolk is located the United States navy yard, the most important on the coast; naval and marine bospitals.

The judicial district in which Norfolk is located councies and the population in 1820 was 750,055. The admirality business of this court is important and increasing, and imposes constant automion and service upon the court.

Regarding Petersburg the committee Regarding Petersburg the committee

Regarding Petersburg the committee says:

Petersburg is the third city of the state, is situated at the head of the Appomattox river. The main lines of railroad east and west and north and south cross here. It is the seat of a large manufacturing business, comprising to-bacco factories, cotton, and flour mills, and numerous minor Industries, employing varied and valuable machinery. It also furnishes nearly 50 per cent, of the export manufactured tobacco trade of the nation.

In favor of the appropriation for "suftable accommodations" for government offices at Fortress Monroe it is said:

Besides the important military post here there is a large and increasing production which finds shipment in this busy place, and the famous Hygela House, which accommodates over 1,000 visitors, is full to overflowing for nine months in the year.

The license of commercial agents became due on the 1st instant. Detectives Raff and Block were detailed to give special attention to this class. James H. Low, who represents Sidenburg & Bro., of New York, was put on rial in the police court yesterday for doing business without a license. He showed a license that he said had been tranferred to him by Mr. Fletcher, of Fletcher & Lamar, at a cost of 1 cent. Jusigment of guilty was given, and sentence was suspended. The fine is 2005. George A. Simmons and A. D. Brackett were charged and promised to take out a license, and sentence was suspended.

For the Commissioners' Approval. The House District committee has submitted the following bills to the commissioners for their consideration and approval: No. 7410, for the inspection of steam bollers; No. 7524, to extend and widen certain streets and avenues; No. 7555, relating to taxation in the District; No. 7555, for the better protection of the in-mates of the National Soldiers' Home, District of Columbia. The District House committee also request the commissioners to have a sur-vey made and an estimate furnished of the probable cost of the proposed bridge over the Eastern branch.

The Early Closing Movement.

The Clerks' Early Closing and Beneficial Association held a meeting last night at Hilton Hall. The subject for action was the consideration of the resolution reported by the board of directors, recommending that the association at once apply for a charter of the order of the Knights of Labor. The resolution was adopted by a large majority, amid the greates enthusiasm. A full delegation was elected to represent the association in the Federation of Labor Unions of this city. A large number of new members were added to the roll. The Early Closing Movement.

Special Improvement Assessment Tax.

Special Improvement Assessment Tax.
The report of the Senate committee on the District of Columbia upon the petition of Mary Ann Egan is interesting, both is the statement of facts and in the conclusion arrived at. Mrs. rgan is the widow of James Egan, a soldier and officer of the United States army, whose death occurred in 1883. During his life he death occurred in 1863. During his life he owned several small lots of land fronting on New Jersey avenue, which property prior to his death he deeded to his wife. James Eran died as his post at Fort Robinson, on the frontier of Nebraska, where for a number of years be had saved, and his wife lived there with him. During their absence a special improvement assessment tax was in 1870 made upon the lots of land in this city. No notice was given to him of it, and his wife had no knowledge of it at the time last year (1885) when she attempted to make sale of one of the lots. Jax, Egan had paid the ordinary tax upon the lots regularly up to the time of his death, and his wife continued to do so afterward. The rate of interest claimed is 10 per cent, on these special assessments, and the accumulation has been so great that the interest and the assessment amount to nearly the value of the land. Senator Pike reports for the committee that "your committee have great improvement tax is legal, but it is a cloud upon the title, and in consideration of the want of any notice to the owner, or any knowledge of the existence of the tax, they recommend that upon the payment of the amount of the ordinal assessment the interest and all fines and for relitures be remitted and canceled, and they, therefore, report a bill to accomplish that purpose, and recommend that it do pass." owned several small lots of land fronting on

The population in 1880 was 6,642. There is no public building at Annapolis, public or private, that could be obtained suitable for a postoffice, and the present accommodations are so exposed as to be essentially unsafe, and are so regarded by the public. The rents paid by the government are $625, while the ust revenue of the postoffice for the last fiscal year was $2,005,64, and the customs receipts were $648,89; all equal to near 4 per cent. upon the proposed appropriation." Memorial of Grievances.

Memorial of Grievances.

The memorial addressed to Congress by the cenvention of third and fourth class post-masters is a document well worthy of the immediate attention of Congress. There are 51,000 third and fourth class postmasters in the United States, whose appeal is urged not as partisans, but as a hard working and conscientious branch of the civil service of the government. They appear before Congress for the first time to petition in their own behalf for fairer compensation and treatment. They discuss the inequalities of the present postal laws and regulations; and, following the statement that postmasters salaries are based upon the aggregate receipts of their office, it is shown that the reduction in the general rate of postage has resulted in many Memorial of Grievances. office, it is shown that the reduction in the general rate of postage has resulted in many of the smaller offices in increasing the business but not the salaries; that the expense of running third and fourth class offices is inconsiderable; in offices of the first and second class allowances are made by the Postoffice Department to cover such expenditures, while the salaries of the postmasters do not in any way suffer; but in offices of lower class these outlays come out of rostmasters' salaries. Beway suffer; but in offices of lower class these outlays come out of postmasters' salaries. Be sides making apparent the fact that the life of lower class postmasters is not an easy one, they assert a fact which, alone, calls for immediate remedy—namely, that "we doubt whether there is a third or fourth class postmaster in the United States who is allowed as much for clerk hire as he is compelled to pay out."

Our Flag is There. This is the anniversary of the American flag, which was adopted and established in its present form by an act of Congress in 1818.

It was designed by the late Capt. Samuel Chester Reid, the heroic commander of the United States private armed brig General Armetrong, who fought the memorable battle of Fayal with a British squadron in September, 1814.

The first flag of the present design was made by the wife of Capt. Reid and a number of ladles at New York, and was holsted on the captiol on the 18th day of April, 1818, sixty-eight years ago, when Mr. Clay was speaker of the House. The anniversary weil deserves to be remembered. ent form by an act of Congress in 1818.

Witnesses' and Jurors' Fees. The remainder of the $50,000 appropriate in the general deficiency bill for the pay of jurors and witnesses during the past fiscal jurors and wheeses during the past ascalary year was drawn from the treasury yesterday and distributed pro raia, by which Marshal Wilson gets $2,500. Ex-Marshal McMichael yesterday settled his accounts with the treasury and turned in $1,000 advanced to him for use, which he did not touch.

OR SKIN CANCER.

For seven years 1 suffered with a cancer on my face. Eight months ago a friend recommended the use of Switt's Specific and I determined to make an effort to procure it. In this I was successful, and began its use. The influence of the medicine at sixt was to somewhat agarwate the sore; but soon the inflammation was allayed, and I began to improve after the first few bottles. My general health has greatly improved. I am stronger, and able to do any kind of work. The cancer on my face began to decrease and the ulcer to heal, until there is not a vestige of it left—only a little sear marks the place.

I have had a cancer on my face for some years, extending from one cheek bone across the nose to the other. It has given me a great deal of rath, at times burning and itching to such an extent hat it was almost unbearable. I commenced using weit's Specific in May, 1886, and have used eight notities. It has given the greatest relief by removing the inflammation and restoring my general health with the inflammation and restoring to general health.

The above is the cut of a newly-invented Stampling Machine, recently patented. It is a very valuable invention. This machine is simple and remarkable for its ingenuity and plainness, working on "rotary motion." The "patent roller" is adjusted to any natiern. It is composed of four pieces of wood; either can be removed without disturbing the other, each being fastened separate at the end with one screw. The "ink fountain" at the top, just above the feit roller, gives the proper flow of ink by simply loosening the top screw, and ceases by tightening it. Fairons can be accommodated with their stamping work while standing at the counter, as you disturb nothing but the "pattern roller," and in a minute the stamping is done. Any width goods may be stamped with this machine, and it will be received by the stamping world with unbounded satisfaction. It is a grand success in expediting labor. It can be used as an attachment in connection with sewing machines, Paties interested can obtain further information by addressing PATENT, Republican Office.
